Good care makes your Muurikka Pan lifelong!

HERE'S HOW YOU TAKE CARE OF YOUR MUURIKKA PAN

Good care makes your Muurikka Pan lifelong. Though Muurikka Pans are made of sturdy and durable iron, also they need some care. With the followings instructions you can keep your pans in good condition year after year and they won't become rusty.

Taking a Muurikka Pan into use

Clean the new pan by washing it with mild detergent or hot water, heat the pan dry and make the fat treatment immediately after cleaning as follows: Wipe the pan with oil or spread evenly a thin layer of Muurikka Silava Frying Fat on the surface of the pan.

The fat may not flow onto the bottom of the pan thickly because when fat accumulates, it burns to an uneven mass.

Heat the pan hot with a gas burner, in an electric grill or over glowing embers so that the fat darkens and dries in the pan at least in the middle part of the pan.

You can wash the pan again and make the fat treatment again if necessary. You can repeat the greasing and heating until the pan turns black but this is not necessary; when used the pan still gets darker and more patinated.

Cleaning

Always clean the pan after use. The best way to clean the pan is immediately after use. Put a little water on the pan, boil up and clean the pan with a turner and kitchen paper. Wipe the pan dry and grease the frying side lightly with cooking oil or unsalted Muurikka Silava Frying Fat.

Storage

Clean, dry and grease the pan before a longer storage by heating with Muurikka Silava Frying Fat (heating removes moisture from the pan and Silava prevents rusting). Keep the pan in a dry place.

If your Muurikka-Pan is rusty

If the pan has been exposed to moisture during storage and is rusty, don't worry. Rub the pan with steel wool or grill brush, clean and make the fat treatment according to the instructions on taking a Muurikka Pan into use. This way your pan is again in good condition.

Old trick with salt

When your Muurikka Pan is dirty or you want to clean the pan between dishes of different tastes, table salt is good means. Spread plenty of salt on the Muurikka Pan and keep on low heat for some minutes. Salt absorbs fat, moisture and dirt. After the dirt has been absorbed erase salt e.g. with a turner, put a little water on the pan and wipe the pan clean. Finally, remember to dry and grease the pan well. This way your Muurikka Pan is again as good as new.

Silicone hand guard included. Diameter: 30 cm.

MUURIKKA STEEL WOKS AND PAELLA PANS – FIRST USE AND MAINTENANCE:

Boil up some water in the pan. Then wash the pan with water and detergent. Dry the pan immediately after washing it. Do not leave it to dry outdoors. Oil the inner surface lightly with cooking oil (or Muurikka Silava Frying Fat). Fat protects against corrosion and improves the pan's frying qualities. Now your pan is ready for use. After each use, oil both the inner and outer surface of the pan lightly with oil.

Maintenance

A product of this type has no non-stick coating. Therefore pieces of food may stick to the surface. These are easy to remove if you leave some water and detergent in the pan for about an hour to soften the food. Then wash the pan with water and detergent. If necessary, you can also clean the pan with a rough sponge or washing powder.

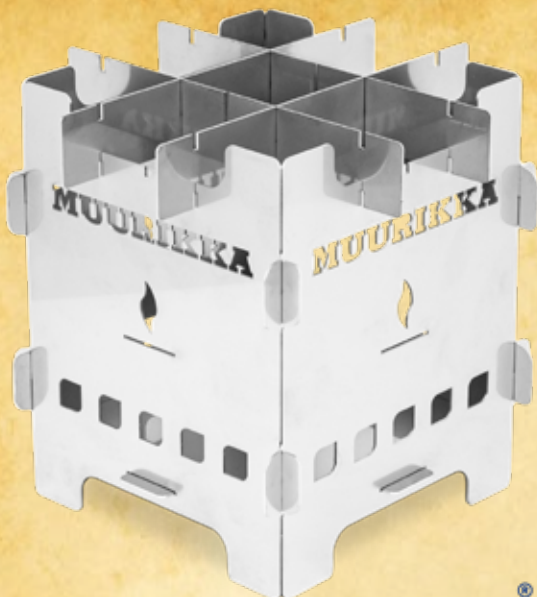

When the pan is clean, dry it immediately and oil both the inner and outer surface lightly. Wrap the pan in paper, put it in a plastic bag and store it in a dry and protected place. If the pan is not dried immediately after use, the inner surface may rust. Remove rust and/or burnt speckled brown layers of fat with a sponge, steel wool or a grill brush, wash with hot water and dry and oil the surface. A burnt speckled brown layer of fat that has formed on the surface as the pan has been used protects the pan against rust, and it is quite normal that the surface of a pan becomes multicoloured after the first use. Seasoning should be repeated whenever the layer has been damaged or washed off.

Take good care of your Tundra Grill!

Made of high-quality materials, the Tundra Grill resists time, wear and tear. With regular maintenance, your Tundra Grill will last a lot longer, and you will always be sure to have an excellent product for cooking.

Maintenance:

After use, always carefully remove the ashes from the furnace in the Tundra Grill. Before doing so, make sure that there are no glowing embers, cinders or other burning material that could start a fire. The easiest way to remove the ashes is to brush the ashes down into the ash pan through the hole in the middle of the furnace. It is easy to empty the ash pan e.g. into a metal bucket. Please note that the ash pan may be hot, so use an oven glove when you lift the ash pan. If your Tundra Grill is not to be used for some time, you can grease the furnace lightly with cooking oil. Oil protects the furnace surface against rust and corrosion.

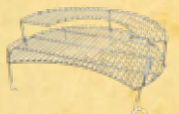

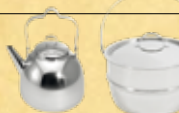

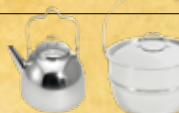

It is also a good idea to clean the surface of the smoke hood, the frying surfaces and the foot part regularly. You can use a moistened cloth to clean these surfaces. If there is ingrained dirt on the surfaces, you can add a small drop of detergent to the water.

If your Tundra Grill should get scratched or some of the paint should wear in spite of your maintenance, we recommend that you touch up the worn painted surface with Tundra Grill touch-up paint as soon as possible. First carefully remove the soot and the fat from the spot to be touched up, and let it dry. If the worn spot is already rusty, remove the rust carefully before painting. When the spot is clean and dry, treat it with Tundra Grill touch-up paint according to the instructions on the package. The paint is available through our dealers, at Opa Muurikka shops and online.

NOTE! The only Tundra Grill touch-up paint available is black Fireplace bowl replacement bases are available for Tundra Grill models 80, 100 and BBQ. The replacement base is placed on the old base. Use Tundra Grill Floor Plate to protect environment around the Tundra Grill from ash and glowing embers. The Floor Plate is available in two sizes.

Fireplace Bowls

The new Fireplace Bowl is installed on the old one. To install the new bowl, you will need an angle grinder to cut off the ash box-sized piece of the old bowl. The new bowl is installed so that the ash door of the new bowl goes through the hole. The bowl has been placed correctly when the welds of the old and new one are aligned.

CHIMNEY SETS

The outer flue included in the chimney set assembly can only be used in buildings with no heat insulation or suspended ceilings. When planning to install Tundra Grill in a building with heat insulation or suspended ceilings, a custom-made fire-insulated bushing is needed. Please always observe local fire safety regulations when installing Tundra Grill fireplace indoors.

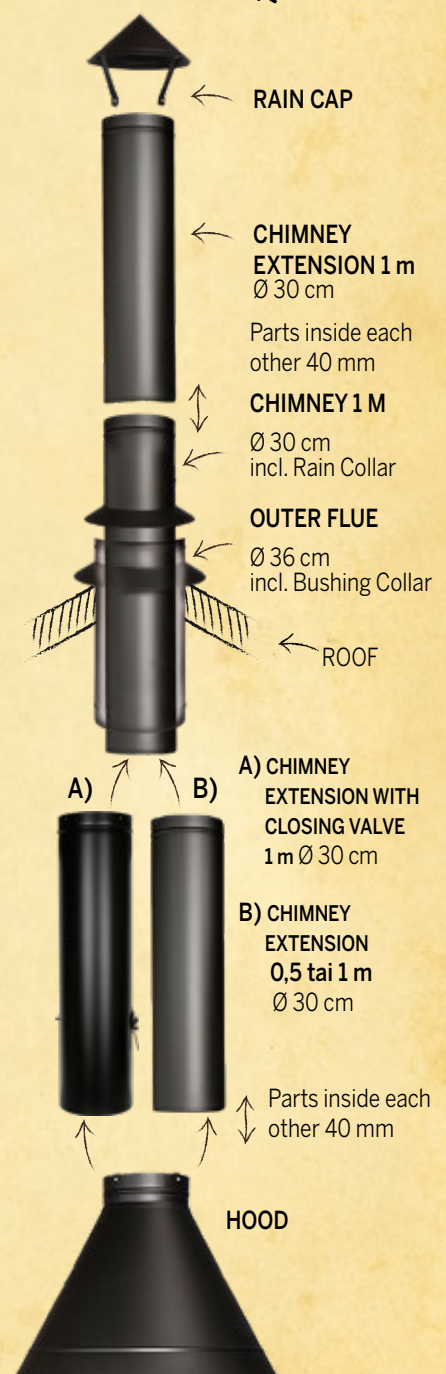

Outer Flue The purpose of the outer flue is to secure that the chimney to be led through the roof will be at a safe distance from the roof structures. The outer flue should be slipped through a hole made in the roof from the outside into the building. The flue will then hang by its bushing collar on the rooftop. The chimney extensions should be slipped through the outer flue from the outside into the building and fastened to the Tundra Grill hood.

Chimney Extensions The number of chimney extensions needed inside the building is obtained by measuring the total distance from the ceiling to the upper edge of the hood. Please always observe local fire safety regulations when planning the chimney extension above the rooftop. The chimney draws better when the height of the chimney on the roof exceeds the minimum requirements.

When calculating the total dimensions and number of the chimney extensions needed, it should be considered that each coupling point of extensions makes the chimney's total height 40 mm smaller. We recommend that all joints between chimney extensions be secured with drilling sheet metal screws or heat-resistant glue paste so the chimney will stay in place even in stormy weather.

The rain collar should be fastened to the chimney above the outer flue. Its purpose is to prevent rain-water from coming into the building through the gap between the chimney and the outer flue.

With the closing valve chimney you can regulate draught and heat inside the building. The valve must be open whenever there is fire in the Tundra Grill. While the valve is closed, more heat will remain inside the building. With the shutter valve, small animals and litter can be prevented from entering the building through the chimney.
